THE SMITH FAMILY AT A GLANCE

Who we are

The Smith Family is a national charity helping young Australians in need to get the most out of their education, so they can create better futures for themselves.

What we do

Last year, our education-orientated support programs changed the lives of more than 124,900 children and young people in 94 communities across Australia.

How we do it

A key way The Smith Family supports children in need is through the Learning for Life program. Learning for Life provides financial, practical and emotional support to help disadvantaged students to thrive at school, enabling them to be engaged in higher education studies or work after leaving the program.

MORE ABOUT THE SMITH FAMILY

After suffering a serious injury, Sheena and Sharna's single mother could no longer work. Affording the cost of her twins' school essentials became unmanageable.

"The Smith Family made me feel 'normal', like I wasn't disadvantaged. It gave me the chance to live a life free from fear of not being able to afford it. Without The Smith Family I wouldn't be where I am today. It sent me on a track that was focused on education," Sheena said. "Now the support is helping me through university where I can make the best of my life." More than 15 years of Smith Family support has seen the girls commit to their education over the long term. In 2016, Sharna is doing an honours degree part-time after completing a Bachelor of Archaeology; and Sheena is in her fifth year at university, studying a Bachelor of Forensics and a Bachelor of Science.
